For those who haven't already, it's time to vote

This week, the Lake County Journals wrap up pre-election coverage.

I encourage those of you who are undecided about the local races to check out our Web site, www.LakeCountyJournals.com.

By scrolling onto the "Local" link at the top of the page and then clicking "Lake County News," you will be able to read the stories that our staff has written about the candidates and referendums.

And for those of you who are interested in reading what your neighbors have to say about the election, I suggest visiting the opinion section of our Web site.

We received dozens of letters about what's on the ballot. And we couldn't fit them all into the print product.

Scroll onto the "Opinion" link on our home page and then click on "Letters" to read the viewpoints of other Lake County residents.

Also, be sure to check out page 6A of this week's Journal to read the endorsement our company has written about the presidential race.

The results are in from the Northern Illinois Newspaper Association awards banquet.

For the second year in a row, the Lake County Journals placed first in the sweepstakes category, which recognizes overall excellence in the newspaper industry.

The Journals also won first place for best design; feature section; special section; community service; single sports column; general feature photo; and headline writing.

In addition, the group won 13 other awards, including third place for best Web site.

Congratulations again to all of the reporters, photographers and designers who earned these honors.

Candidates trade barbs in 10th District

Discussions about government spending, Iraq War dominate race

By COLIN SELBO
cselbo@nwnewsgroup.com

It could be a long election night for these two campaign organizations.

Less than a week away from the election, it is anyone's guess whether Republican Rep. Mark Kirk can once again hold off Democratic challenger Dan Seals, or whether Seals will be the one heading to Washington come January.

Kirk, 49, is running for his fifth term representing Illinois' 10th District, and he cites his accomplishments during that time as reason for voters to re-elect him on Nov. 4.

Among his actions during the last two years in office, Kirk cites his work to prevent British Petroleum from dumping in Lake Michigan; the establishment of an anti-gang task force in Waukegan; and the opening of a new Veteran's Affairs-Navy hospital in the county.

Kirk voted twice for the recent bailout package that other House Republicans refused to support. Even though he said residents of the district were mostly against the packages, Kirk said he did what he felt was necessary.

"I will vote to save your job, even if it risks losing mine," he said. However, Kirk noted that he would have liked to make some changes to the bailout bills to make them less costly for taxpayers.

"I would have made sure [the bailout bills] were kosher, with no pork in them," he said.

A supporter of the initial authorization for the Iraq War, Kirk said it is time to start bringing troops in Iraq home.

"Wind up the missions; bring one brigade home a month," Kirk said. "Make sure you do it with care and precision, so we never have to do it again."

Seals, 37, said that among his top priorities would be working to create jobs in Lake County, providing additional measures to protect homeowners and addressing the national debt.

Seals said the government will have to reduce spending in order to bring down the debt, a process he acknowledged will not be easy. After protecting spending on veterans and seniors, Seals said, cuts will have to be made.

"Every program has its set of backers. We have put ourselves in a tough position here, and we have to make some tough choices," he said. "There will be some pain, but I think we will come out better because of it."

Seals said the Iraq War was unnecessary and supports a withdrawal in phases over the next 12 to 16 months. He cites the war's escalating cost and Iraqi Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki's support for a withdrawal as reasons to bring U.S. troops home.

Much of the race has become centered on Kirk's support, or supposed support of President Bush. Seals said Kirk has voted with Republican leadership in Congress 90 percent of the time.

"Every budget that the President put forward [Kirk] voted for. We both say that we're for fiscal discipline, but he's not voting for it, Seals said.

Kirk adamantly disagrees with Seals' characterization of him, and said that his voting record shows he is not afraid to go against his party or the president.

"Dan Seals would like to be running against George Bush, but instead he's running against me," Kirk said.

Largest early voter numbers ever

By STEPHANIE N. LEHMAN
slehman@nwnewsgroup.com
and COLIN SELBO
cselbo@nwnewsgroup.com

With a record number of registered voters prepared to cast ballots, it should come as no surprise that early voting numbers across Lake County are higher than ever before.

As of Oct. 28, more than 64,000 residents in Lake County had cast early ballots. Lake County Clerk Willard Helander anticipates the numbers to be even higher when early voting ends Thursday, Oct. 30.

"We'll probably beat 70,000 [early voters]," Helander said.

With record numbers expected, Helander said, the county prepared for the surge in early voters with extra staff and computers. The county even sent a mailer to voters encouraging them to cast ballots early, and avoid potential lines on Election Day, she said.

"This process is going to take off a lot of the pressure," Helander said. "If we had not had those people vote, that's that many more people on Election Day. This is helping to spread out the service."

Patrick Gallery of Libertyville said he voted early at the county clerk office to avoid lines on election day.

"I was surprised it was as busy as it was," Gallery said. "There's supposed to be big crowds on Election Day."

Fran White of Waukegan said she has made of habit of voting early in order to avoid Election Day crowds.

"They're very efficient," White said. "I voted early the last couple of elections."

Despite some reports of long lines at the 19 early voting locations in Lake County, Helander said she was happy with the process and with the performance of election judges. Even election judges who are veterans of the process received a refresher on the rules that regulate the voting process, she said.

"Every judge was required to be trained. We wanted everyone to be up to par. If you only do it twice a year, it's easy for [rules] not be fresh in your mind," Helander said.

One last reminder

While many voters have made it a priority to vote early, campaign organizers have made it a priority to make sure their candidate's name is at the forefront of everyone's mind.

One of the most notable strategies is to make use of yard signs, particularly outside early-voting centers.

"The number of signs is growing. We have a lot in our front yard," said Avon Township Supervisor Shirley Christian of the Avon Township Center. "I think that's why any candidate puts a sign up there - they just want people to see that and remember that name. It's one last effort to remind people that they're out there and would like their votes."

Nancy Shepherdson, central committeewoman of the 8th District and chair of the 8th District Democrats and Independents, gives campaign advice to candidates.

She said yard signs, while not the most effective way to reach voters, are about name recognition and at the end of the day can still generate votes.

Stephanie N. Lehman - slehman@nwnewsgroup.com

Campaign yard signs have appeared in droves across Lake County, especially in front of early voting centers. Dan Seals' campaign for Congress has more than 10,000 signs up in the district, said Elisabeth Smith, communications director for Seals' campaign.

"The most effective thing is always to talk to a voter and persuade them to put your sign in their yard, because that conveys that they support you. And it also gives all their neighbors an introduction to your name," she said. "It's kind of an almost early viral marketing campaign."

Park districts, forest preserves and county roads are off limits to campaign yard signs, Christian said. But private property is a huge venue for signs.

"If you can find a yard that's right on a prominent street corner, that's the best place to put a sign," Shepherdson said. "Or if one house has a sign in their yard, maybe you'll try to get the next door neighbor to put your sign up."

It's not always the candidates who take the initiative to put up a sign.

Doug Vehlow, a 60-year-old Round Lake Park resident who said he could be called an independent voter, paid for a yard sign supporting Chuck Baldwin - the Constitutional Party's candidate for president.

"My hope is that by seeing that [sign], this might engender some conversation or dialogue that are different from the set answers people are getting from Republicans or Democrats," Vehlow said. "Why put up a yard sign? I suppose it's mainly a statement of principle, but also to persuade subtly."

Though there's been virtually no response to his sign - he lives on a dead-end street - Vehlow said the advertisement did pique the interest of his 18-year-old daughter.

"I consider myself a man of principal," he said. "If I go down, at least I know I voted for someone who would change [things]."

Are they worth it?

In some villages, yard signs have been defaced or even stolen, though it hasn't been a major concern this election, Shepherdson said.

"As long as we have a supply of signs, we just keep putting them back up," she said.

Though candidates seem to believe it's worth the last ditch effort to place signs at voting centers, yard signs aren't a main priority for campaigns, Shepherdson said.

"As the classic quote goes: signs don't vote," she said.

Mertle Rosemeyer looks at her campaign button collection in her Hainesville home. The 87-year-old has been voting since 1940.

Button collection displays presidential race history

By STEPHANIE N. LEHMAN
slehman@nwnewsgroup.com

HAINESVILLE - She's got 83 buttons.

At least two from every election year. Since 1896.

Talk about a collection. Hainesville resident Mertle Rosemeyer has been voting since 1940 - including three times for Franklin Delano Roosevelt, she said.

But the Independent said she didn't become interested in collecting campaign buttons until her son, John, became old enough to vote - right around the time the voting age was lowered to 18.

After that, the collector simply found the buttons to be interesting and full of historical nostalgia.

"I didn't remember [Joseph] Lieberman ran for vice president at one point," she said while looking through her collection. "But here he is."

For every single election year since 1896, Rosemeyer has two buttons - one for the Republican candidate, one for the Democrat candidate - which she has displayed in four overflowing glass frames.

She said buttons were small enough to keep modestly, whereas other campaign material is too bulky to store.

"That takes too much space," she said of campaign bumper stickers. "And who wants to save bumper stickers? Buttons will keep - look how long I've had these."

Rosemeyer used to travel to every campaign headquarters to find her buttons each year. But this year has been more difficult. She said she called around, trying to find out how she could get her hands on campaign buttons for Sen. John McCain and Sen. Barack Obama.

Last week, a friend finally sent her a McCain button, much to her delight.

It put her collection up to 83 buttons.

But for Rosemeyer, her collection is not complete until she adds an Obama button to her historical batch.

"I'm hoping to get 84," the 87-year-old said. "I don't know if I'll be around for the next election, but if I am, I'll continue with them."

Sequoits not finished yet

With perfect season secured, Antioch focuses on playoffs

By COLIN SELBO
cselbo@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - Ask Antioch Sequoits head coach Brian Glashagel if he and his coaching staff are surprised with their team finishing the regular season 9-0 and Glashagel will just shrug.

"We all felt we were going to have a good squad," he said.

Now there's an understatement.

Considering the team's 3-6 finish last year, an undefeated season was not exactly on the radar when the season began. The last time a Sequoits team finished the regular season undefeated was in 1983.

But after completing a perfect regular season with a 50-7 trouncing of rival Lakes Community High School on Oct. 24, the Sequoits now move on to the postseason as a number two seed in the Class 6A playoffs.

Although he's pleased with the undefeated record, Glashagel said, the ultimate goal during the season was to win the North Suburban Conference Prairie Division, no matter how many wins it took.

"If winning the division meant going 7-2 or 8-1, so be it; 9-0 is a bonus," he said.

A big part of the reason for the Sequoits success is senior running back Cameron White, who has tallied 1,360 yards on the season. But Glashagel also points to the success of junior fullback Steve Lorenzini who sits at 940 yards, 60 yards shy of 1,000.

If Lorenzini cross the thousand yard barrier, it would give the Sequoits a backfield with two 1,000-yard rushers.

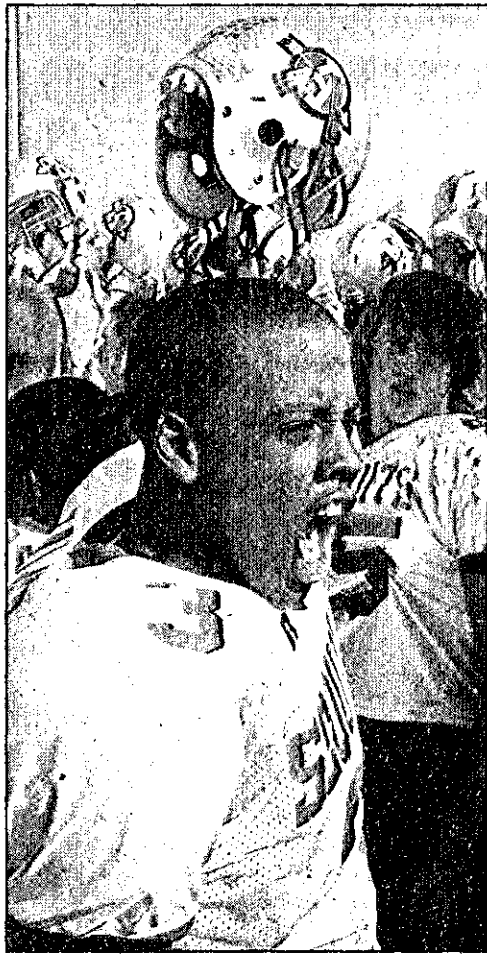

The contributions from White and Lorenzini helped propel Antioch to 369 points on the season, far and away the highest total in the Prairie Division.

With expectations high, Glashagel said, the added pressure of the playoffs will not distract his team. The Sequoits are not strangers to high pressure games, with the team coming out victorious in marquee games during the regular season against Grant Community High School and Vernon Hills High School, he said.

"There's always pressure. You got guys that thrive on pressure. We perform better when there's pressure," Glashagel said. "This will be more of a regular week. Our whole regular routine is like a playoff routine."

The Sequoits will host Chicago Harlan, a team that finished 6-3 in the Public League. With a win, Antioch would move to 10 wins, tying a school record.

Glashagel said the whole school is anxious for the playoffs to get underway.

Candace H. Johnson - njnews@nwnewsgroup.com

DeVonte Miller, junior, cheers along with the rest of the Antioch football team after a 21-14 win earlier this season against Wauconda.

If you go ...

Kickoff: 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3; gates will open at 3:30 p.m.

Place: Antioch Community High School, 1133 Main St., in Antioch.

Tickets: $4; tickets will be on sale from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 30, in the athletic office. For more information, call at 847-838-7630.

"When football does well, everyone's up in spirits, and the weekend can't get here fast enough," he said.

There's no way to know just how far the Sequoits will make it in the playoffs. But, Glashagel said, his team will not look past any opponent.

"I constantly remind everyone to cherish the time we have together," he said. "I'm enjoying the ride."

Presidential pick has needed experience

The United States has seen a great many things in these past 232 years.

Few rival the challenges our country faces today. The economy is suffering. Every day, we hold our breath and watch wild fluctuations in our markets. Families are losing their homes and, worse, their hope. We are at war and face myriad uncertainties of how our actions abroad should be conducted.

A poll conducted in mid-October indicated only 7 percent of Americans had confidence that our nation's leaders have this nation headed in the right direction. On Nov. 4, each of us will be presented an opportunity to ensure our nation's future and to restore faith in our leadership. To accomplish that end, Shaw Newspapers endorses the ticket of Arizona Republican Sen. John McCain and Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin.

In these times, our nation demands a proven leader. McCain has the necessary experience to lead us now. He has been forthright and has challenged his own party on many issues. He is out front. During his 26 years in the Senate, he has displayed a high degree of integrity. This experience offers us a clear sense of how McCain will function and perform as president.

McCain has dedicated his life to serving our country, both in the military and in Congress. He is a war hero who has faced unimaginable hardship, meeting them with a mental strength that is incalculable. Few have displayed greater courage or fortitude. Our country faces a great number of challenges around the globe. Too many of our enemies are not open to negotiation. McCain's strength in the world arena is unflappable.

As a legislator, McCain has proved that he is willing to work on both sides of the aisle in Congress. Throughout his service in the U.S. Senate, he has stood up for what he believed in – even if that meant breaking ranks with fellow Republicans. At a time when we need to do what is right and need a leader who does what is right, McCain has proven time and again that he has the conviction to be an independent thinker who is willing to stand alone to defend his beliefs. If our country continues down its current path, we stand to lose a number of our freedoms. McCain's hard-line approach in the real world is more practical and better for America.

Sarah Palin's strong conservative beliefs offer a balance to McCain's moderate social philosophies. Together, they would provide a leadership team willing to cooperate though unwilling to compromise their personal beliefs.

We know that Illinois Sen. Barack Obama has inspired interest in the election over the past several months. Obama has proven to be an intelligent and charismatic campaigner whose career ascent has been phenomenal. However, we believe that his plans for America lack substance. The novice he has displayed when discussing matters of foreign policy and national security are of significant concern to us.

Past elections haven't always presented us good choices. In this election, each candidate offers qualities that will appeal to Americans. This campaign has been good for the nation and inspirational.

However, when hype and party affiliation are set aside, there is only one candidate fit to lead our nation. That candidate is John McCain.

The Office of the President of Shaw Newspapers
Tom Shaw, chief executive officer

Democratic differences seen at home, abroad

To the Editor:

I see two different Democratic parties as I vote in this election.

Barack Obama and the national Democratic party fight for us and for change.

I see integrity and hope in what is coming to Washington I see inclusion.

Here at home, I have worries.

Lake County Democrats are the opposite of the reform movement heading to Washington.

Then we have the local corruption with Lake County Democrats.

I believe we have to do more to help our people in trouble, but we must do it with integrity.

More open space

To the Editor:
At this time, the public is being made aware of the importance of voter approval for the Lake County Forest Preserve's $185 million bond issue being presented on the November ballot. Those of us who use and cherish the extensive forest preserve system that provides us with trails, open space, and wildlife habitat have long been aware of its importance to the health of our citizens and our property values. Studies have shown the positive effect of existing open space preserves on adjacent home values as well as the health benefits of green spaces.

Forest preserve usage has increased dramatically over the past year as residents look to recreate closer to home. Lake County Audubon Society has seen an increase in participants in our mid-week nature walks that take place in various preserve habitats in the county. Increasingly, we hear compliments and appreciation of the foresight that has created this system over time.

This referendum is our chance to enable the forest preserve district to continue its important work with new land purchases creating more areas for wildlife habitat restoration, new trails, renovation, and improved facilities. At this time, land prices are lower, and we have the opportunity to increase the open space in Lake County to balance the rampant development we've seen over the past years. It is very appealing to know that there will not be a tax increase but simply a continuation of the small amount of taxes that we are already paying for this valuable investment.

The Lake County Audubon Society Board has directed me to urge the voters of Lake County to look carefully for the question toward the end of the ballot and vote yes.

Chris Geiselhart
President of the Lake County Audubon Society

Kudos to candidate

To the Editor:
Few people pay enough attention to local politics as we get caught up in what is featured on television. I hope each of us engages in the local county board election.

I am proud to endorse Pat Carey for our county board. As a local business woman, I have watched with great interest the people who enter the political arena and achieve goals for their constituents – not for themselves.

Pat Carey is a proven achiever, a woman with a record of accomplishments. As an Adeline-Geo Karis Republican who believes in fiscal responsibility, I feel Pat Carey is the best fit for our Lake County Board.

Our Lake County Board/Lake County Forest Preserve District has a huge budget entrusted to them. We need people in that dual position that understand the magnitude of that responsibility.

Confident about candidate

To the Editor:
Rich Garling, running as a representative for the 52nd District, should have our vote on Nov. 4.

Rich serves as a trustee in Island Lake, located in both Lake and McHenry counties. He chairs the economic development commission for Island Lake and knows the importance of good business development to bring in new taxes.

Rich Garling is the former chair of the police and safety committee of Island Lake and therefore knows better than almost any other legislator how to promote safety.

He is a former member of the DeKalb County Board, where he learned how to study both small and large issues and relate them to the needs of residents in his district and beyond.

Rich wants to end the expensive stalemate in Springfield. He wants to develop a capital budget for Illinois because it means at least $3 billion dollars in federal funds that we won't receive without one.

Rich Garling understands what needs to be done to increase tax revenue without adding taxes to resident bills. The answer is economic development and better financial management.

Traffic talk

To the Editor:

Bill Gentes, our 26th District Democratic candidate for state Senate, actually knocked on my door this past week.

After sharing about who he was and what office he was running for, he took time to listen to my biggest concern about living in the district. For me, this is traffic.

I have a small, service-based business that requires my driving to multiple locations on a daily basis. I bill for my services by the hour, so every minute spent sitting in traffic getting to and from appointments actually costs me money.

Compound that with the price of gas, and the impact of living in the 26th District is personally a very costly proposition for me.

It is not only my once weekly commute to Oak Park from Ingleside that I am talking about, but the local commutes between my home and appointments where a seven-mile commute often takes 35 minutes, instead 10 to 15 minutes. Compound this by five appointments a day, and I have lost at least two hours of billable time a day, which is 10 hours of billable time a week, 40 hours a month, etc.

As a small business owner this is a huge issue. After listening to my experience of living and working in the area ... Gentes was then able to make me feel a bit more hopeful about the situation by sharing information with me about expanding Route 53 through Lake County, which I must admit I did not know a lot about before talking to him.

Gentes supports this plan for the 26th District.

It would certainly make daily life for residents of the 26th District and Lake County more pleasant.

Lake County Forest Preserves Referendum Information

The November ballot includes a Forest Preserve Referendum.

No tax rate increase.

The referendum will provide $185 million to save more open space, create new trails, restore wildlife habitats and improve preserves — all WITHOUT a tax rate increase.

With approval, $185 million of future bonds would replace older bonds that are being paid off in the coming year. Your tax rate will stay the same because the older bonds are being retired.

Without approval, Forest Preserve property taxes would decrease by up to $24 per $200,000 market value beginning in 2009 when the older bonds retire. However, without approval, purchase of new Forest Preserve lands would stop.

Why now?

The Forest Preserve will have used all of its land acquisition funds by the end of 2008. Replacing older bonds that are about to expire provides continued funding for land purchases and preserve improvements WITHOUT increasing taxes.

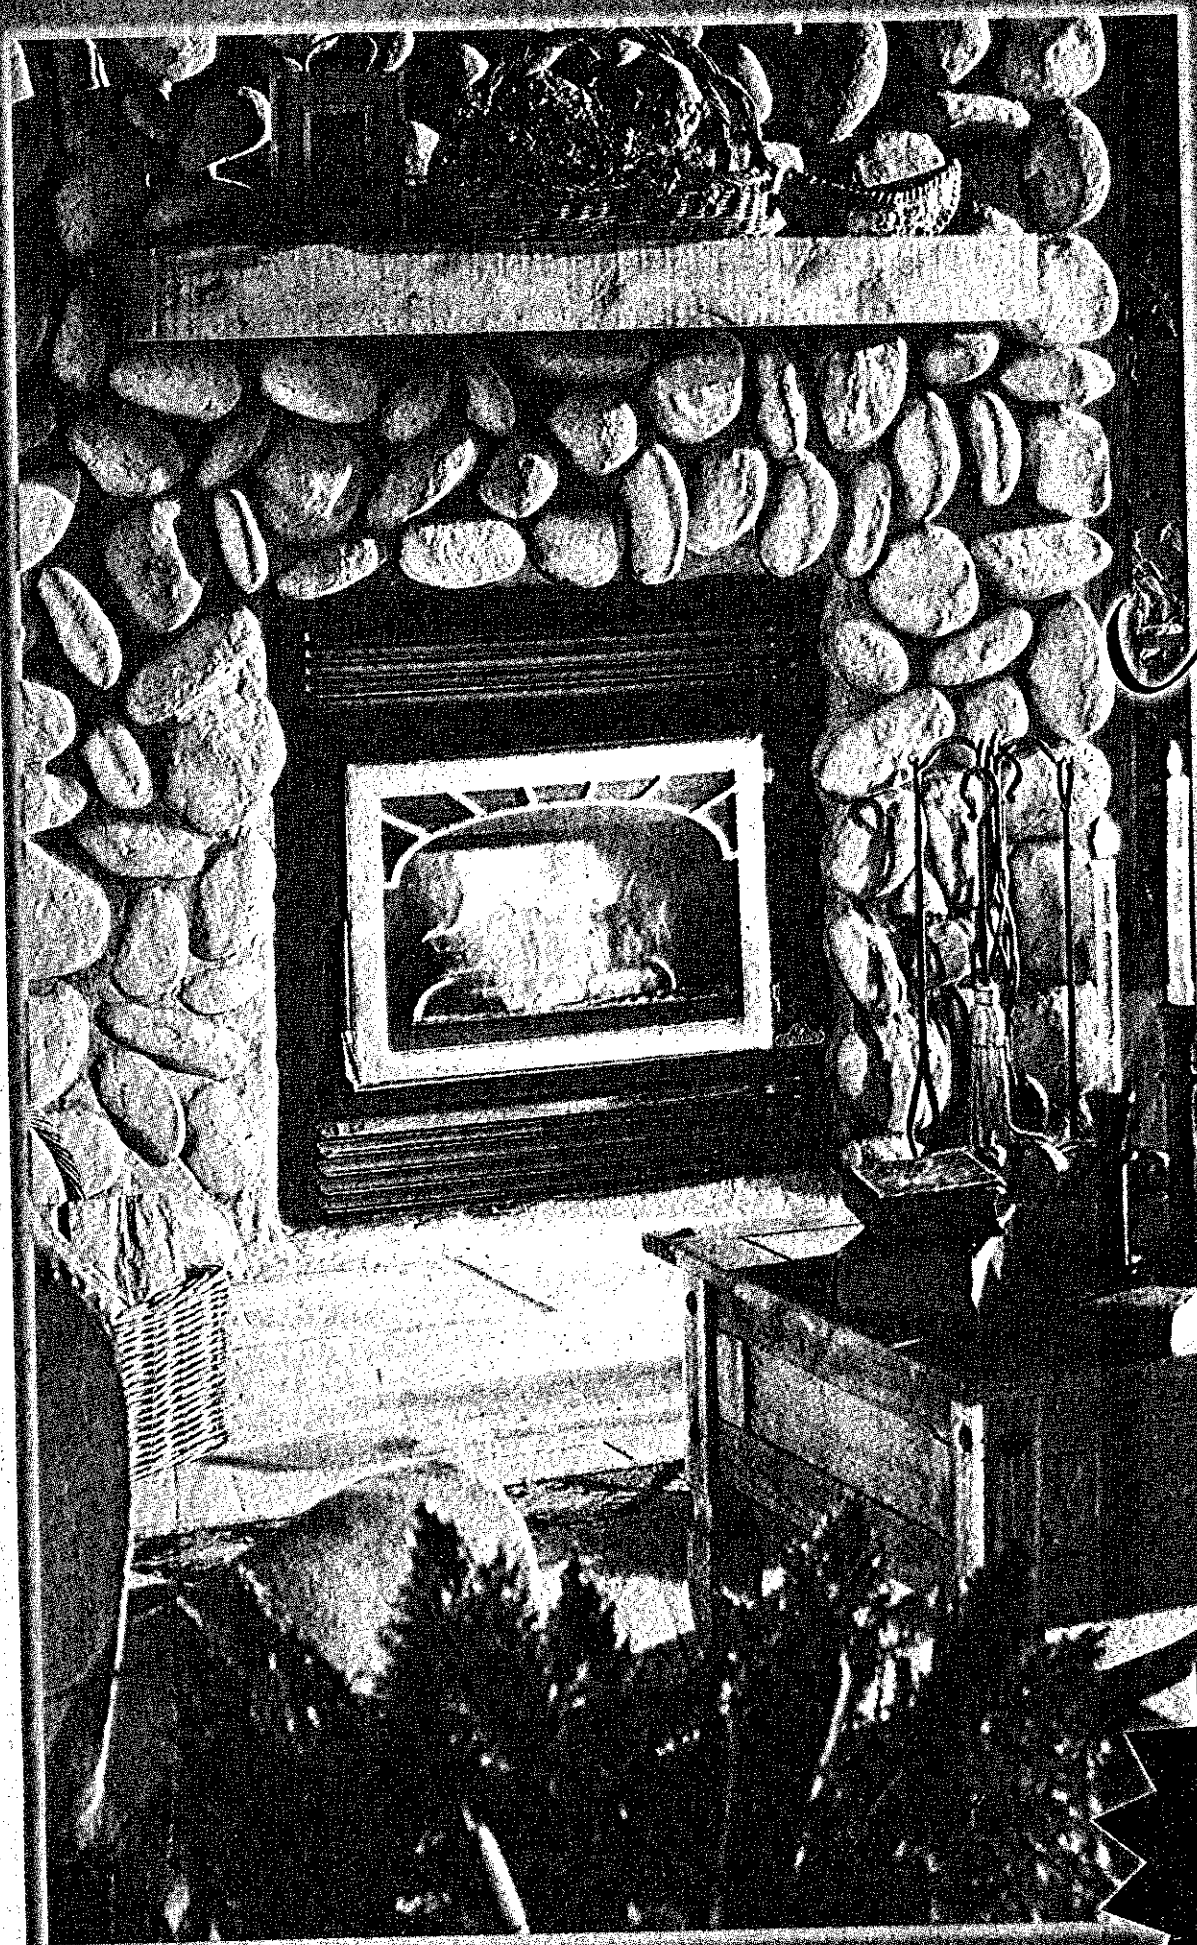

Also, lower land prices and favorable interest rates make this an opportune time to replace the older bonds and protect more open space.

Early voting successful

Oct. 30 was the last day that Illinois voters could use the "early voting" process to cast their vote in the Nov. 4 election. This was the first time in a presidential general election that registered voters in Illinois were able to have that opportunity at early voting centers.

Early voting was a long time coming, and there was much opposition to it based on some concerns that there were no guarantees that election authorities would not apply partisanship in the designation of the locations for early voting. Although there is never a perfect system to anything, I believe that early voting has been an extreme success with a minimum of glitches.

I have always favored systems that allow citizens a greater opportunity to participate in the electoral process. Thirty-five states allow early voting. It has allowed voters to cast their ballots early without giving any reason for doing so, as required when someone wishes to vote by absentee ballot.

Each election shows a greater involvement in the process.

In the February primary election, 11 percent of Illinois registered voters cast their votes by either absentee or early voting ballots.

Besides allowing voters to exercise their right to vote at a time most convenient to them and to avoid the long lines and delay on election day, early voting is also a boon to election authorities.

I'm sure that it adds to the total vote on election day, and that's a big plus.

Also, it helps to reduce the logjam on Election Day, reducing the chances of complaints.

Grants awarded

The Exchange Club Foundation for the Prevention of Child Abuse in Lake County has announced that it has awarded $17,500 in grants this year. Supported by the Gurnee Breakfast, Gurnee Noon, Grayslake, Round Lake and the Waukegan Exchange clubs, the foundation has awarded more than $125,000 in grants over the past decade in Lake County.

For the 2008-09 grant application, the foundation and clubs updated the grant criteria to focus exclusively on programs that best promote parent education and public information that directly prevents child abuse and neglect.

The recipients of grants this year include Kid's Hope United, $3,500 for the parent support group; Catholic Charities, $3,500 for child-abuse prevention services to women at Samaritan house; CYN, $3,500 for the "Darkness to Light" public-education program to reduce and recognize child abuse; Waukegan public schools, $3,500 for a parenting program; and the 19th Judicial Circuit Family Violence Coordinating Council, $3,500, for early signs of abuse and neglect awareness for professionals who interact with children.

>> InBrief

Stimulus payments

The Internal Revenue Service seeks to return $8.7 million to Illinois in undeliverable refunds and economic stimulus payments.

"People across the country are missing tax refunds and stimulus checks," said IRS Commissioner Doug Shulman in a release. "We are committed to making the process as easy as possible for taxpayers to update their addresses with the IRS and get their checks."

All a taxpayer has to do is update his or her address once. The IRS will then send out all checks due.

It is crucial that taxpayers who may be due a stimulus check update their addresses with the IRS by Nov. 28. By law, economic stimulus checks must be sent out by Dec. 31 of this year.

The "Where's My Stimulus Payment?" tool on www.irs.gov is a way for taxpayers to check the status of a stimulus check and receive instructions on how to update their address. Taxpayers without Internet access should call 866-234-2942.

In the Latest Chill for Homeowners, Banks Are Freezing Lines of Credit

By Amy Honk

When Denise Lopez bought two new tables, a floor lamp and a chair finance it with her home-equity line of credit. But it wasn't long before an option. Her line of credit had been frozen.

The purchases for her West Palm Beach, Fla., condo were made on card, and she then wrote a check against her line of credit to cover

The Home-Equity Door Slams Shut

Pat Mertz Esswein, Kiplinger's Personal Finance
Some 122,000 borrowers with Countrywide home-equity lines of credit, or HELOCs, received letters in January informing them that they could no longer withdraw funds from their lines. A few months later, thousands of customers of other major lenders -- including Bank of America, J.P. Morgan Chase, Citibank, SunTrust, USAA, Wachovia, Washington Mutual and Wells Fargo -- also

National City offers cash to cut equity lines

By Saskia Scholtes in New York

National City, the US bank that has been among the hardest hit by the subprime crisis, is trying to reduce its exposure to the riskiest category of home loans by offering customers cash to close their untapped home equity lines.

If the scheme is successful, analysts say other banks could follow suit, choosing to spend money now to avoid taking more exposure to the US housing slump.

With Us It's A Different Story.

Some trends we just don't follow.

Now-you-see-it, now-you-don't home equity lines may be the latest trend at some of the big banks in town, but not at our bank.

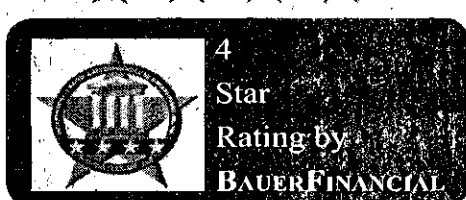

When you open a home equity line of credit with us you can rest assured that your line of credit won't be frozen or mysteriously reduced. We work with you to make sure applying for or transferring your loan is easy. All of our decision makers are local, so your loan request will be handled quickly and efficiently--without headaches and hidden fees you might find elsewhere. Plus, you'll receive an exceptional rate and service that can only be provided from Central Lake County's Leading bank group. So if you're looking for a bank you can count on — look no further.

Rates as Low As
Prime-.75% APR^{1,2}

No teaser rate • No annual fees

The Big Banks are paying you not to borrow or to close your home Equity Line. We'll pay you with a $100 Visa Gift Card³ when you open or transfer a new line of credit.

Open a new home equity line or transfer an existing home equity line by December 31, 2008.

1. The Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is variable based on the most recent Prime Rate that is available as of the first day of the month and the amount of the commitment. The APR is based on the Prime Rate published in the Money Rates section of the Wall Street Journal (ASU Prime). Based on the 10/1/08 Prime Rate of 5.00%, standard rates range between 4.50% APR and 5.25% APR depending on the amount of the commitment. The APR can change on the first day of each month. Minimum amount for a home equity line of credit is $10,000. The maximum APR is 6.25%. The minimum APR is 4.00%. Consult a tax advisor regarding the deductibility of interest. Property insurance for property securing loan is required. Flood insurance may also be required. An increase in the prime rate may increase the APR which will increase the amount of your payment. Your minimum payment amount will equal the amount of accrued finance charges. If you only want to make minimum payments, you will not fully repay the principal, you will then be required to pay the entire balance as a single lump-sum payment at maturity. Offer subject to credit review and approval. Rates are subject to change without notice. 2. This offer is a preferred rate from standard variable rates. It will reduce your home equity line of credit APR by .25% (subject to rate limitations). If your home equity line of credit is secured by your Libertyville Bank & Trust checking account as a money market payment arrangement, the APR for preferred rates range from 4.25% through 5.00% depending on the amount of the commitment. The APR reduction will be applied first to any payment arrangement, then to the standard bank for each line of credit. The rate reduction does not apply to a Fixed Rate Repayment Plan. The adjusted rate of Prime-.75% APR assumes a commitment amount of $10,000 through $100,000 and participation in a money market payment arrangement with a Libertyville Bank & Trust checking account as described herein as of 10/01/08. If you select a Fixed Rate Repayment Plan with the Total Line of Credit, it must be selected during the first five years of your term with a minimum amount per plan of $10,000. Repayment plans must not continue beyond the maturity date of the Total Line of Credit. No more than five fixed rate repayment plans may be open at one time. The fixed rate will be based on the Fixed Rate Index (FRI) plus a margin rounded to the nearest 0.25% as of the first business day of the month in which the plan is established. The FRI is the weekly average yield on U.S. Treasury securities acquired to a constant maturity of 5 years for repayment terms of 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 years, and the margin is 3.00% for a fully amortized Fixed Rate Repayment Plan and the margin is 3.25% for a 15 year amortization Fixed Rate Repayment Plan with a balloon payment. The FRI is the weekly average yield on U.S. Treasury securities acquired to a constant maturity of 5 years for repayment terms of 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 years, and the margin is 3.25% for a 15 year amortization Fixed Rate Repayment Plan with a balloon payment. Based on FRI for the week of 10/27/08, the Fixed Rate Repayment Plan APR would range from 6.00% through 7.25%. A Fixed Rate Repayment Plan may be changed to a Fixed Rate Repayment Plan with a 12 months of its duration. A Visa® Gift Card is a one-time offer. The offer is subject to credit review and approval. The offer may change or be withdrawn at any time. Not available for lines of credit used for purchase money of first mortgage refinancing transactions. © 2008 Libertyville Bank & Trust.

JOSEPHINE M. LAIRDDied: Oct. 21, 2008*Enjoyed traveling to Las Vegas*

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis. - Josephine M. Laird was born March 20, 1915, in Prairie du Chien, Wis., to Louis and Anna (Bertch) Portwine, one of 13 brothers and sisters.

She lived at home until moving to Milwaukee, Wis., as a young woman. In 1936, Josephine married Eugene Moore and together they had three daughters, Patricia, Carol, and Susan; and two sons, George and John. The family lived primarily in Chicago, where Josephine was a housewife and Eugene was a kitchen remodeler and tool and die maker. Eugene and Josephine divorced in 1975.

During the the 1970s, Josephine worked outside of the home at Teletype Corporation and Sara Lee Corporation. She retired from Sara Lee Corporation in 1980. In 1978, Josephine married Robert Laird, a teacher in the Chicago Public Schools.

The couple enjoyed traveling to Las Vegas, Nev., and Florida. Robert died in 1983. From 1990 to 2002, Josephine lived with her daughter Patricia in Chicago and Madison, Wis. From 2002 to 2006, Josephine lived in Antioch, near her daughter Susan. During the last two years, Josephine lived in North Bend, Ore., with her daughter Carol and her three grandsons.

Her hobbies included gardening, baking, and sewing. She enjoyed walking, line dancing, water aerobics and chair yoga.

She was a cat lover and invited many feline friends into her home over her life. She enjoyed traveling, especially her trip to Europe in 1989 with friends Marge Chard, Flo Dugan and Elaine Paine.

They visited France, Austria, Liechtenstein, Switzerland and Germany. The Germany visit coincided with the historic announcement of the fall of the Berlin Wall.

Josephine is survived by her three daughters, Patricia Watson of Kenosha, Wis., Carol Chard of North Bend, Ore., and Susan Moore of Antioch; her two sons, George (Carolee) Moore of Mount Prospect, and John (Cecelia) Moore of Juneau, Wis.; granddaughter Tracy (Mike) Dempsey of Suffolk, Va.; grandsons, David Oshinski of Chicago, Anthony Baschetti of Antioch, and Eric, Dylan and Ryan Chard of North Bend, Ore.; great-grandsons, Adam, Lee Owen and Wade Dempsey and numerous nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents, her twelve brothers and sisters; her first husband, Eugene Moore; her second husband, Robert Laird, and son-in-law William Chard Jr. in 1993.

Arrangements were held by North Bend Chapel in North Bend, Ore. Please sign the guestbook at www.lakecountyjournals.com/obits.

Tooth Bleaching

A tooth with damaged pulp may become discolored, usually from iron in the blood that has leaked. It usually occurs from trauma to the tooth, and it may be the first sign that the pulp has been damaged. The discoloration problem may usually be solved by internally bleaching the crown.

It is important to note that all discolored teeth are not "dead." Sometimes the pulp may recover completely after some trauma leave a healthy and yet discolored tooth. When pulp therapy is completed your dentist introduces a bleaching solution internally in the tooth. More than one visit may be necessary and between visits a nilder bleach is sealed in the tooth. When a satisfactory degree of lightening has been achieved, a tooth colored filling will be inserted to seal the chamber. Although generally successful, bleaching doesn't always remove the stains. Other techniques such as jackets, bonding or veneering may then be used.

Musical beds are tiring

I found an egg covered with a baby blanket in my refrigerator.

My 4-year-old daughter had tucked it in for the night. It was quite sweet. Of course, she ate it the next morning. But at least the egg had one last good night's sleep.

Unlike the rest of us.

Part of it's my fault, staying up too late to read up on things like who's saying what about who's pro- or anti-American these days. So let me get this straight. Joe the Plumber's pro-American. Socialists are anti-American. And most Democrats fall somewhere in between. Is that right?

I figure since I eat eggs (well-loved eggs, mind you) and I'd love some apple pie right now, though pumpkin sounds good, too, I must be American. Or maybe that just makes me hungry. I don't know.

Enough about me.

And enough about politics, though I've been kind of consumed by them the past couple months.

I haven't even had the chance to catch up on other important topics, such as how exactly Angelina Jolie lost the baby weight.

I think my 2-1/2-year-old daughter sent the message clearly that perhaps I've been spending too much time on the Internet when she fed the computer a can of flaky fish food.

"I make mess," she told me after she did it.

"Where?" I asked.

"On the 'puter," she answered.

It took awhile for me to figure out she meant, "computer." When I did, you can bet I high-tailed it downstairs.

As I type this, the fish - the only witness - is staring at me, as if to say, "You know who did it? 'That one.'" (The fish likes to impersonate John McCain.)

You see, as my 4-year-old daughter declared during a sleep-over with her cousins the other night, "No one's getting any rest around here."

My sister was visiting with her two girls and witnessed the musical beds.

I didn't realize just how complicated it was until I tried to explain it to her.

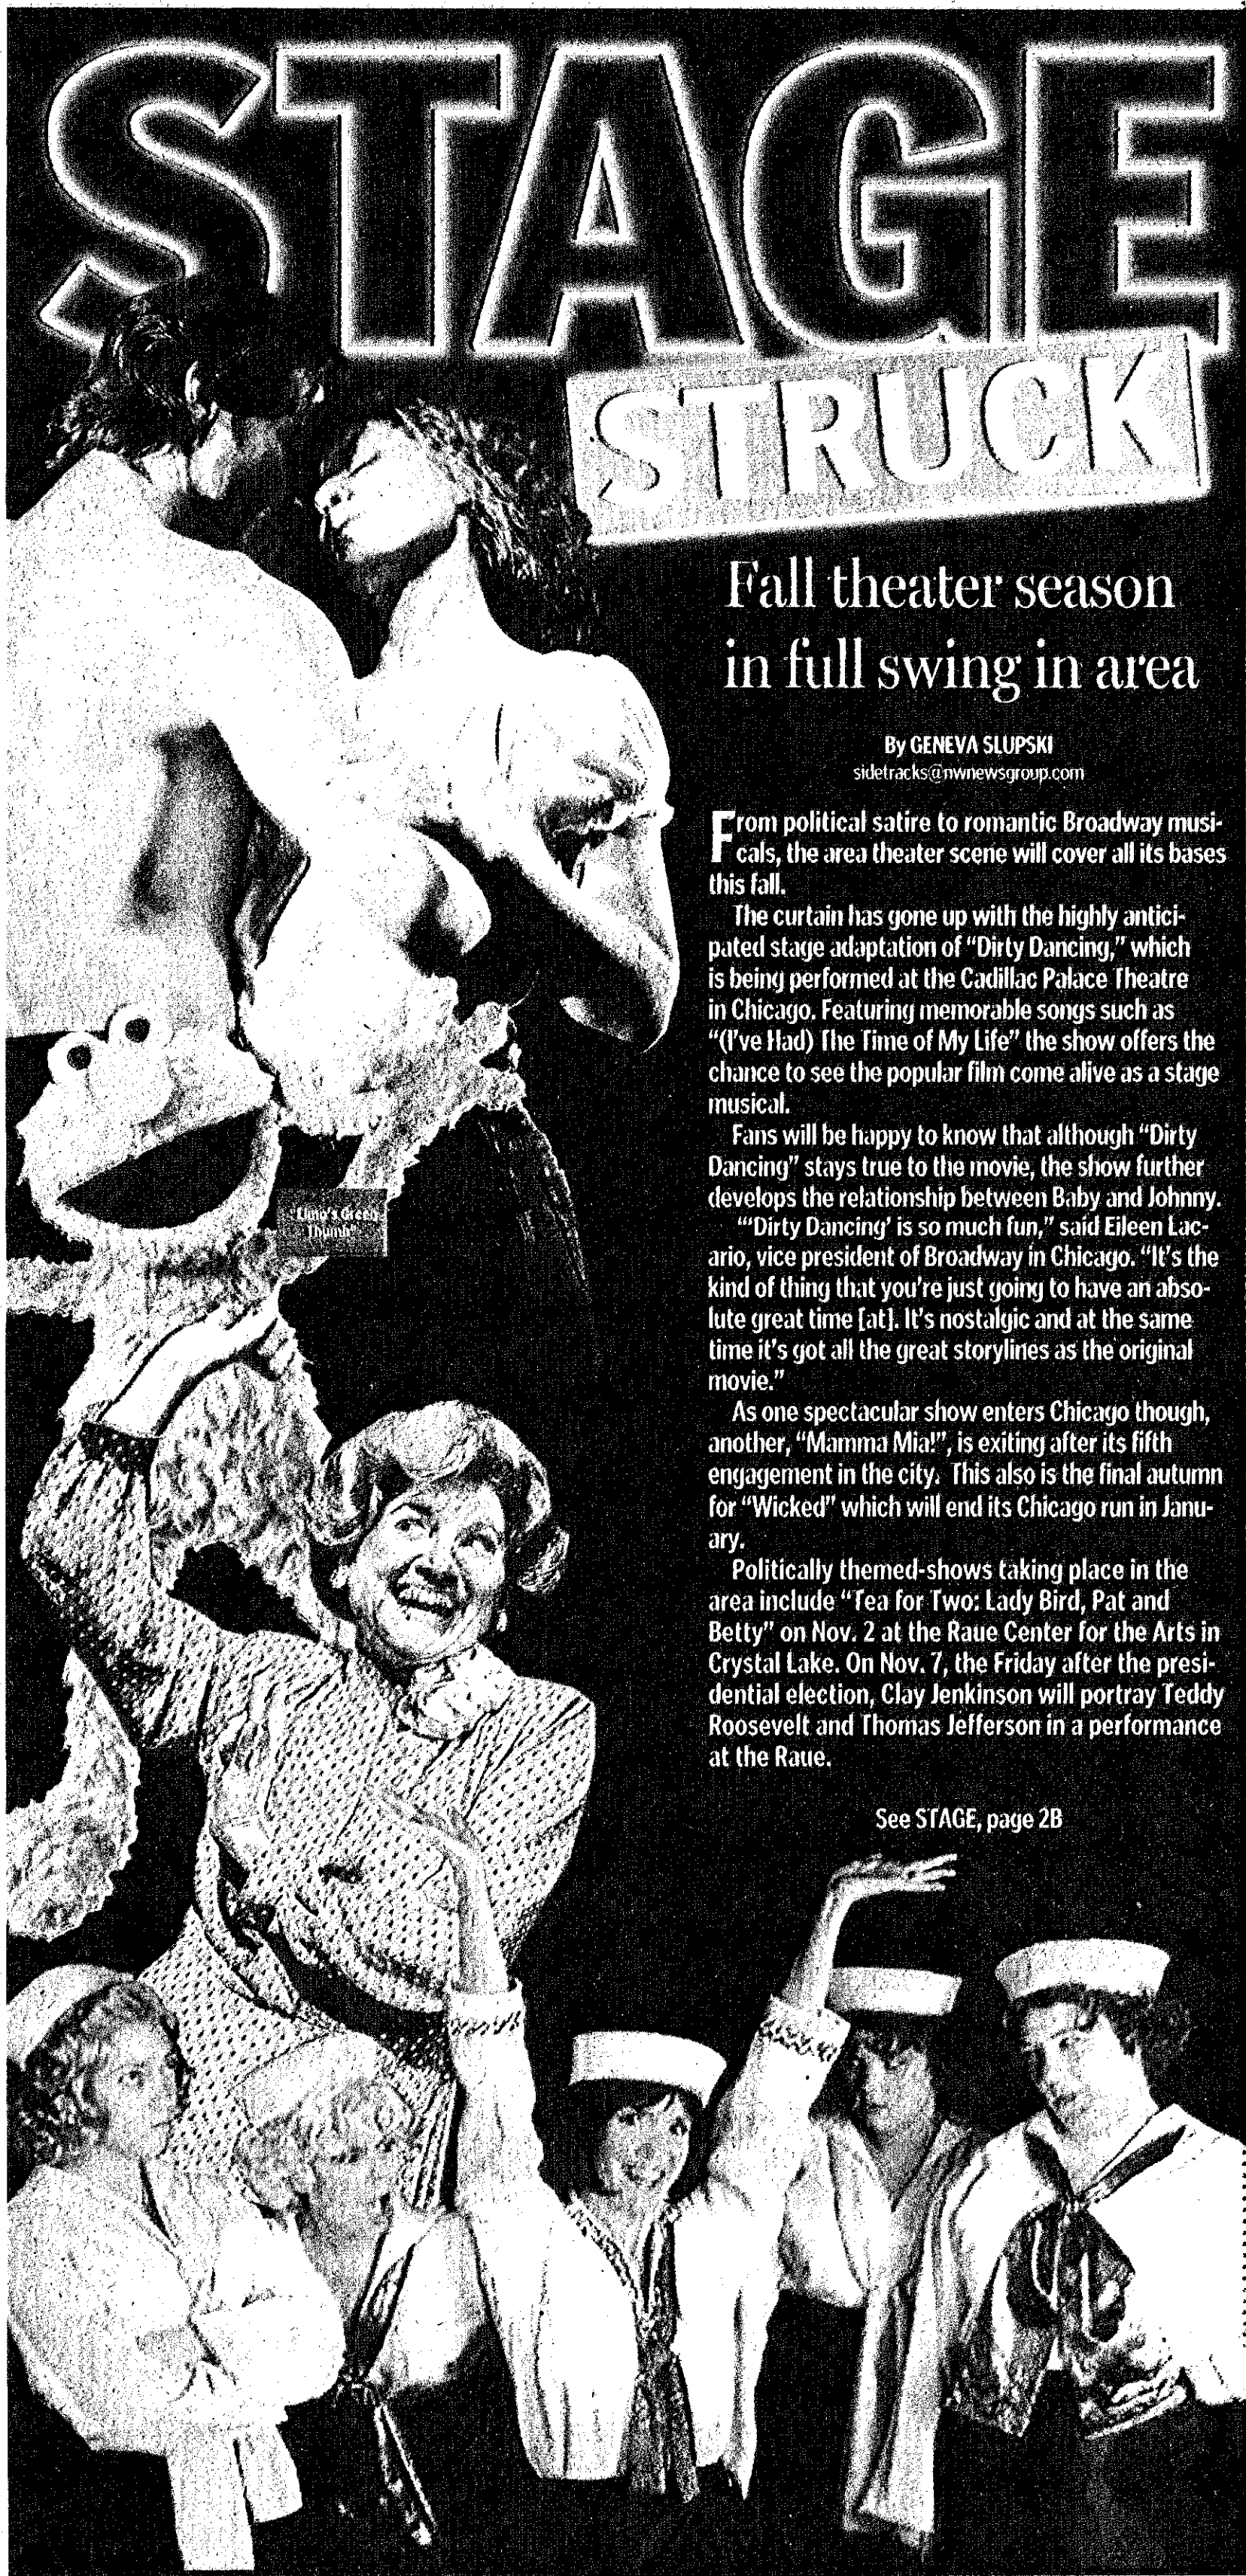

Anna goes in the pack-and-play next to my bed, but only if (more like when) she gets up in the middle of the night. Otherwise, she goes on the bottom bunk in the older girls' bedroom.

During their naps, Lilly and Anna go in the cribs in the babies' room. Anna has to go in the crib with the tent so she doesn't spend the entire naptime climbing in and out.

While Anna and Lilly are napping in the babies' room during the day, one of the babies goes in the pack-and-play next to my bed. It's usually Rowan because she likes and needs her space. Finley gets strapped into a bouncy seat next to the pack-and-play.

At night, the two of them go in the cribs.

Fall theater season in full swing in area

By GENEVA SLUPSKI

sidetracks@nwnewsgroup.com

From political satire to romantic Broadway musicals, the area theater scene will cover all its bases this fall.

The curtain has gone up with the highly anticipated stage adaptation of "Dirty Dancing," which is being performed at the Cadillac Palace Theatre in Chicago. Featuring memorable songs such as "(I've Had) The Time of My Life" the show offers the chance to see the popular film come alive as a stage musical.

Fans will be happy to know that although "Dirty Dancing" stays true to the movie, the show further develops the relationship between Baby and Johnny.

"Dirty Dancing" is so much fun," said Eileen Lacario, vice president of Broadway in Chicago. "It's the kind of thing that you're just going to have an absolute great time [at]. It's nostalgic and at the same time it's got all the great storylines as the original movie."

As one spectacular show enters Chicago though, another, "Mamma Mia!," is exiting after its fifth engagement in the city. This also is the final autumn for "Wicked" which will end its Chicago run in January.

Politically themed-shows taking place in the area include "Tea for Two: Lady Bird, Pat and Betty" on Nov. 2 at the Raue Center for the Arts in Crystal Lake. On Nov. 7, the Friday after the presidential election, Clay Jenkinson will portray Teddy Roosevelt and Thomas Jefferson in a performance at the Raue.

Dining Out on a Diet: Choose Smart Foods

(MS) — Dining out at a restaurant is a treat for many people in this country, while for others it has become a way of life. In a time-crunched society, restaurant-prepared and commercially offered foods offer convenience for people who simply are not cooking at home. However, with larger portion sizes and a greater amount of sodium and fat, among other downsides, eating out poses challenges for those watching their weight.

Consider these eye-openers regarding favorite foods at national restaurant chains and popular eateries:

- A restaurant-sized order of the Italian dish fettuccini alfredo weighs in at 1,500 calories and 97 grams of fat. Almost half of the fat is saturated.

- A typical order of fried rice from a Chinese food take-out adds up to 1,480 calories.

- Choosing a Caesar Side Salad from Boston Market dishes up more calories than other seemingly diet-disastrous sides on their menu, such as Old-Fashioned Potato Salad or Creamed Spinach.

- Contrary to popular belief, selecting a cheeseburger from McDonald's is a better option than the Chicken McGrill. The burger has 330 calories versus the chicken sandwich's 410.

- When dining out at chain steakhouses, you'll want to pass on those batter-dipped fried onion appetizers. Most rank in around 2,130 calories and 163 grams of fat. When choosing a cut of steak, opt for the filet mignon, which is the leanest.

- Shakes at the majority of the fast-food eateries, including White Castle, McDonalds, Burger King, and Hardees, to name a few, are typically 1,000 calories or more.

While it may seem it would be impossible to dine out and avoid destroying diet plans, there are techniques to consider that can keep you on track.

1. Make friends with broiled, boiled, or roasted foods. These are some of the healthiest ways to have foods prepared if you're calorie-conscious. Ask that oils be used sparingly if not removed completely. Simply dabbing meats that look like they may be a little bit more greasy than you would like with a napkin can also trim off a couple of unnecessary calories.

2. Fill up on the good stuff. Skip the unending bread basket and opt for picking on raw vegetables, if possible. Ask to have a side salad (low-fat dressing on the side) brought when others are enjoying more fattening appetizers, so hunger pangs won't tempt you to indulge in something naughty.

3. Don't be a member of the clean-plate club. Your parents may have imbedded the idea in your brain that you must finish all of the food on your plate before you can get up from the table, but that rule no longer applies. Restaurant portion sizes can be triple the recommended amount. For example, a 3-ounce piece of meat is portion size, and is roughly the size of the palm of your hand. Ask for a carry-out container, and immediately cut your food in half and pack away the excess.

4. Order from the kids' menu, if possible. See if you can order that smaller-sized kids' portion, which is actually more aligned with the amount of food you should be eating. If not, a lower-fat appetizer and a salad may do the trick.

5. Skimp on dips and dressings. Many condiments can add unwanted calories. Case in point, that creamy Caesar salad dressing can knock out any inherent healthy aspects of the remainder of the salad. Don't be afraid to ask for substitutions, or simply ask to have dressings put on the side so you can decide if it's worth taking the plunge.

6. Eat a little before heading to the restaurant. If you know you tend to over-indulge at restaurants, fill up on low-fat snacks before you leave. Drink a tall glass of water and enjoy a cup of low-calorie grapes or some other fruit. You won't be famished upon entering the restaurant, and hopefully not tempted to order one of everything on the menu.

7. Select sit-downs over buffets. The enormity of a buffet spread can make selecting healthy options — and keeping portion sizes in check — next to impossible.

8. Make selections from the "fit," "light," or "sensible solutions" portion of the menu. Some restaurants understand the public's desire to eat right. They'll provide a selection of foods that are healthy and often delicious. So why not give them a try? And if you see something on the regular menu that you would like, find out if the kitchen can prepare it in a more healthy way. For example, see if the fried chicken strips in the chicken salad can be substituted with grilled chicken.

9. Make dining out a treat not an everyday occurrence. Dining out can fit into a sensible eating plan when done in moderation — just like everything else about dieting.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
This is to inform you that there is a possibility you may be contacted by someone trying to scam you. The scammers use plays such as requesting you to send money prior to making a purchase, or offering to pay you a "processing fee" for depositing checks and sending a percentage back to them. These checks are FAKE and YOU will be held liable for repaying the funds to the bank.
It is usually a good idea to avoid transactions overseas or from out of state. To protect your self, shop locally.
Typically the scammers will contact you via email or via a phone relay system for the hearing impaired so you don't know where they are calling from or what they sound like.
Recently arrests were made in the Netherlands, Nigeria, & Canada with fake checks worth more than $2.1 billion dollars. The average victim of this scam loses $3000 to $4000.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
This is to inform you that there is a possibility you may be contacted by someone trying to scam you. The scammers use plays such as requesting you to send money prior to making a purchase, or offering to pay you a "processing fee" for depositing checks and sending a percentage back to them. These checks are FAKE and YOU will be held liable for repaying the funds to the bank.
It is usually a good idea to avoid transactions overseas or from out of state. To protect your self, shop locally.
Typically the scammers will contact you via email or via a phone relay system for the hearing impaired so you don't know where they are calling from or what they sound like.
Recently arrests were made in the Netherlands, Nigeria, & Canada with fake checks worth more than $2.1 billion dollars. The average victim of this scam loses $3000 to $4000.
Please Be Cautious.

Moisture And Mold: A Critical Concern

(NAPSA) Having a good understanding about preventing and controlling mold is critical to maintaining a healthy home. It is also important to note that controlling moisture is the single most effective way to prevent mold growth. These issues have not only become critical with construction and the professional contractor, but also the do-it-yourselfer (DIYer). In some cases, even the most modern, energy-efficient and advanced buildings can run the risk of potential mold growth, due to airtight construction trapping moisture inside wall cavities and other enclosures.

There are more than 100,000 species of mold present indoors and outdoors, wherever there is standing water or any dampness.

Mold can grow in or on virtually any material that becomes dirty or wet. DIYers must realize that this includes, but is not limited to, building materials such as fiberglass insulation, lumber, carpet, fabric, vinyl wall coverings, paint, plywood, siding, wallboard, ceiling panels and brick. Even products such as aluminum, steel and glass can support mold growth under the right conditions. While research indicates that the majority of moisture problems still originate with water leakage, proper protection of building materials or the job area prior to and during installation can minimize moisture-rich conditions.

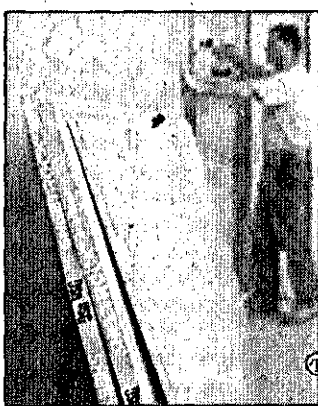

Another aspect to control moisture and mold in construction is to utilize new and innovative materials that are considered mold resistant, or products that are made of materials that actively inhibit mold development.

Sheetrock(r) brand Mold Tough(tm) gypsum panels by United States Gypsum Company (USG), for example, are intended for use in interior areas where incidental moisture is a concern, including the basement, bathroom, laundry room or garage. These gypsum panels are the first patented wallboard to have added ingredients that actively inhibit mold growth in the core and on both sides of the surface paper. This wallboard technology scores a 10 (on a scale of 0 to 10) for mold resistance under the American Society for Testing and Materials guidelines and standards.

While the use of moisture-resistant gypsum panels can help minimize the chances for mold growth, they are just one element of a comprehensive approach to controlling the problem. For more information on proper moisture management, visit www.usg.com, call (800)

USG-4YOU or write to USG, 550 West Adams St., Chicago, IL 60661.

Mold prevention through moisture control is a focus of the Responsible Solutions to Mold Coalition (RSMC), which is comprised of 13 companies, associations and government and academic organizations that are dedicated to identifying and communicating accurate, science-based information. More information is available at <http://www.responsible moldsolutions.org>.
